I am writing to oppose the building of a new cruise ship terminal in Seattle. Boeing has just projected that air traffic will not return to pre-corona levels for at least 3 years. Given the publicity around infections in cruise ships, people are even less likely to board a ship than they are to fly. This is not the time to invest $100 million of tax revenue into building an additional cruise ship terminal. There are far better uses for this money at this critical time.

Please abandon the plan to construct another terminal for a dying industry.
